IN.FORM SESSIONS - BURN FAT/BE FIT/FOR LIFE

We are seeing good results..and participants are excited. Some of the participants after one week on the program are seeing more energy, their hunger is satisfied, body fat percentage down, hydration levels up, muscle mass up, visceral fat down, metabolic age down. That is cause for celebration!!! Come and join the fun...Mondays at 6 P.M. or Wednesdays at 5 P.M.

Another question for Dr. Luis Pacheco...Why is weight management important? Some of the benefits associated with better weight management include: REDUCED RISK FOR HEART ATTACKS: Did you know that losing just 10 pounds can result in a significant risk reduction for heart attacks? It's true. The healthier your coronary arteries, the less likelihood of having a heart attack. BETTER BLOOD PRESSURE CONTROL: Losing weight can also have a direct beneficial effect on blood pressure. LOWERED RISK FOR SLEEP APNEA: Many of my patients who suffer from sleep apnea are also overweight. This is oftentimes due to narrowing of one's airway because of the extra tissue around the windpipe walls. The more overweight you are, the greater the potential for airway narrowing and the worsening of sleep apnea.

Remember the IN.FORM program is for a healthy lifestyle..not just weight management.

PLAY IT SAFE WITH FIREWORKS

By Denise Brilliant, N.P.

Among the popular outdoor summertime activities that often accompanies picnics, family gatherings and other parties is the use of fireworks to help punctuate a celebration. Of course, Independence Day celebrations prompt many to exhibit their own pyrotechnic displays. Whether it's the Fourth of July or any other holiday or gathering, anytime fireworks are being used, it's very important the safety of everyone involved is taken into account. There is significant risk of serious injury – particularly to eyes and extremities – when using fireworks and a high degree of caution should be used when engaged with such devices. Injuries from fireworks, especially homemade or illegal fireworks, are all too common. Young children account for a majority of injuries related to fireworks. According to the United States Eye Injury Registry, approximately 12,000 Americans are treated in emergency departments annually for firework-related injuries, and many of those injuries involve the eye. A few tips to keep in mind:

- All fireworks are dangerous and extreme caution should be exercised when using.
- Firecrackers, bottle rockets, sparklers and Roman candles account for most fireworks injuries.
- Sparklers may seem harmless, but burn up to 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit. For children under the age of 5, sparklers account for three-quarters of fireworks injuries.
- In case of an eye injury, do not touch, rub or press the injured eye. Seek immediate care from an ophthalmologist or hospital emergency room.

The safest option is to leave fireworks in the hands of professionals who take extensive safety precautions when producing their spectacular light displays. If you or loved ones are going to use fireworks, remember to exercise caution and follow any safety precautions that may be included on fireworks packaging. Losing one's sight or a finger is a high price to pay for a few minutes of fun. Summer and all the fun times that come with it can be the best days of the year, especially when celebrated safely.
