1866-2016 = 150 YEARS

150 years ago a small group of Czech people started the Catholic Church in Reedsville. A small log church was built—where the school stands now, then a small brick church was built where the church stands now. This small church was taken down for the now 109 year old church that now stands. This is just a small bit of history of the landmark.

On Saturday, July 16 an OPEN HOUSE will be held at the church to mark the beginning. Events will start at 9:00 AM and continue to 2:30 PM.

A Brat/Burger Fry, a Bake Sale, music and tours of the building will be held. Delicious Kolaches will be available as well as other Czech bakery.

Tours of the building will be available with many artifacts and displays. A special display of the layout of the Old Cemetery will be available with names and layout.

We invite everybody to the event to learn a bit of history of the historical building in Reedsville. We know there are many stories that could be told. Come share with us.

It's that time of the year!

Seasonal allergies are a common complaint during spring and summer.

Symptoms include itchy, runny, sneezy or stuffy noses and itchy, watery eyes. People with seasonal allergies (hay fever) experience increased symptoms when plants causing the sensitivity are actively growing and pollinating. Pollens light enough to be wind-borne commonly trigger allergy symptoms in many hay fever sufferers.

Trees, grasses and weeds all produce pollens during different seasons. As a result, the hay fever season occurs at various times of the year for different people, depending on which pollen(s) they are allergic to.

Mold and fungus spores are also airborne during the summer and fall months and may cause reactions in hay fever sufferers, too. Mold and fungus growth is encouraged by humid weather and poor air circulation.

The difference between seasonal allergies, versus other allergies such as perennial and environmental allergies, is that a seasonal allergy will subside at some point, depending on where you live and the substance you are allergic to.

Avoidance is the best "treatment" for any allergy. Keep doors and windows closed and avoid vigorous outside activity to lessen exposure when the pollen count is high. Do not hang your clothes or bedding outside when the pollen count is high as well.

Removing pets from the home and using dust and mold control measures can also help relieve symptoms due to environmental and perennial allergens.

Once someone develops a seasonal allergy, it's likely to reoccur about the same time each year. If you're bothered by allergy symptoms and over-the-counter medications aren't effective, consult with your health care provider to try other treatment options and medications with the fewest side effects.

THE SENSE BEHIND THE SCIENCE - HEAL THE GUT - HEAL THE BODY

Researchers at The Hughes Center have long suspected a connection between what we eat and how we feel, and now more than ever, science is proving them right. On a foundational level we all understand that our bodies are fueled by the vitamins, minerals and energy in our foods, but what most of us don't realize is the connection between what we eat and feeling bad.

THE WAY WE EAT IS LITERALLY MAKING US SICK. THE LINK BETWEEN OUR DIET AND DIABETES, WEIGHT GAIN, AND CARDIOVASCULAR COMPROMISE CAN NO LONGER BE DENIED. Think of your gut-or body's core- as the nucleus of health and well-being. It should be a repository of nutrition and good bacteria to fuel our body's needs. But thanks to our Western diets, our core (also referred to as our microbiome) has become a breeding ground for metabolic breakdown. There was a time when the majority of our diets were comprised of fresh fruits and vegetables, but convenience foods (fast food, cereals, boxed pasta, and soda) have long taken their place. The effect of these foods, along with stress and exposure to toxins on our microbiome has become the catalyst for practically every illness you can imagine.

Going into their ground-breaking 2015 study, Dr. Jeffery Lamb knew addressing metabolic dysfunction in the microbiome was key. "Our initial findings combined with all we already knew about gut health led us to believe we were on the right track," Dr. Lamb said. "But we had to prove our theories in just the right way."
