Let's celebrate Men's Health Month

By Denise Brilliant, N.P.

June is Men's Health Month — a perfect time to increase awareness of preventable health problems and promote early disease detection by encouraging men to receive regular health and wellness screenings.

It is important that men establish themselves with a regular health care provider or primary health care provider (PCP) and have regular exams, even in their 20s and 30s.

A brief list of recommended screening tests for men are listed below. The following guidelines are generalized and a health care provider should be consulted about family history and the potential need for sooner screening:

Prostate cancer screening

The American Cancer Society (ACS) recommends that men have a chance to make an informed decision with their health care provider about whether to be screened for prostate cancer.

The decision should be made after receiving information about the uncertainties, risks and potential benefits of prostate cancer screening. This discussion should take place at:

- Age 50 for men who are at average risk and are expected to live at least 10 more years.
- Age 45 for men at high risk of developing prostate cancer.
- Age 40 for men at even higher risk (those with more than one first-degree relative who had prostate cancer at an early age).

Colorectal cancer screening

Beginning at age 50, men should talk with their health care provider about their colorectal cancer screening options.

Testicular cancer

Screening for testicular cancer should take place between the ages of 17 and 34.

Blood pressure screening

Left untreated, high blood pressure increases the risk of heart attack, stroke, heart failure, kidney damage and blindness.

Cholesterol screening

This is a simple blood test to measure total cholesterol, low-density lipoprotein (LDL) cholesterol, and high-density lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol and triglycerides.

While some of these tests may be perceived as being embarrassing or uncomfortable, they can help diagnose or even prevent some very serious diseases and could even save your life.
